Cover Story

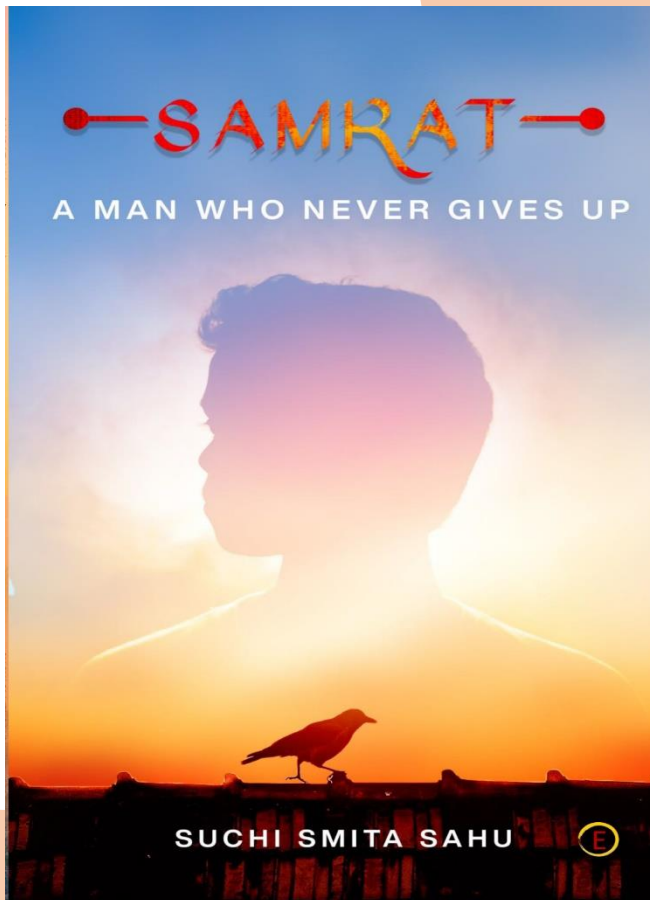

Author

Suchismita Sahu

I am a budding writer and I believe every human being we meet or know or hear of is a story. Each living individual may have some life altering moments or some inspiring moments though we don't know them personally, the content can be from different backgrounds, different personality, different aura. I like a lot to observe people around me, I always love to meet new people and interact with them. I love to travel places. I have had some opportunity to spend some years outside country, I always had this Imagination how life would be in West but after living there just realized essence remains same irrespective of east/west. If not many but there are certain stories which can inspire people which deserve to reach maximum, to be read and known. By profession I am a people person in technical words a HR professional. I am trying my hands on writing a fiction periodic novel for first time. When I had this story in my mind I felt I had to write it and I couldn't be more satisfied unless its written. I feel when we watch a movie, visually we sync ourself in it while watching it similarly when we read a book then we try to visualise characters just like the characters of a movie which keeps us binding in the story.

Also, I believe this book is going to connect readers and they would find it very relatable. Just like our main character "Samrat" I feel there would be many "Samrats" out there who can feel related that this chapter is a phase where I have gone through and when we find something is relatable we subconsciously connect emotionally or develop a connection to it which will indulge our readers in the story. I also wanted to write as I felt like portraying the thoughts of a 8year old boy through this story in the era of 1970's where customs, rules by society were a bit strict and not as liberal as compared today neither technology was as advanced as today.

SAMRAT: Who never gives up by Suchi Smita Sahu

The spirit of never giving up and going on steady is what is the main purpose of any person's life. Everyone, from their childhood, is inculcated with the spirit of striving to thrive even in adverse circumstances. "Samrat: Who Never Gives Up" by Suchi Smita Sahu has the resonating effect of this philosophy, which the title character signifies and the subtitle substantiates. In her short book, Sahu captures the life of her protagonist and the different stages that occur while addressing different themes and issues which are prevalent and familiar in the lives of many. At the same time, she may have chosen to keep her characters concentrated, yet the book conveys many ideas apart from the message of the subtitle.

The subtitle also becomes an essential attraction for the readers as it gives a vibe of positivity and an idea that what they are going to read is going to transport them away from the negativity of life and despite showing situations that may affect the protagonist in a negative way, yet they would see the positive that comes out of it. When the readers begin with the introduction as given by the author, they know that what they are going to read is be a work of fiction, yet the effect and validity it will have will be on a universal level. She gives just the required details in the introduction and touches the nerve of interest of the readers in no time.

Although they know a bit about the plot, yet they are drawn towards reading the book due to the suspense and uncertainty with which the author packs the book. The story majorly revolves around the protagonist, Samrat, and the events of his life. Through one character, the author shows the different shades of life that occur in the life of an average human being and how they shape their personalities as a whole. She also shows that even a simple life can be eventful and filled with unimaginable changes and also shows the versatility of human nature and behaviour.

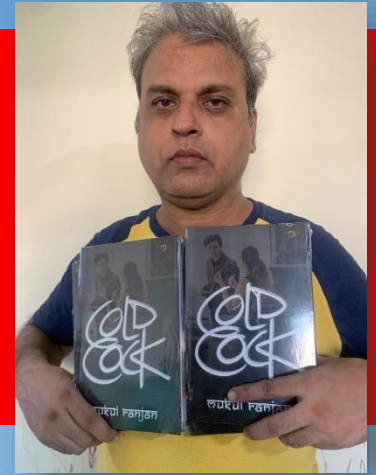

SAMRAT: Who never gives up by Suchi Smita Sahu

“Samrat” comes across as a story that would be a characteristic of an average Indian household, and the circumstances the protagonist faces can also be found. This makes Samrat a representative of the many who would be like him. Sahu’s capturing his life right from his early days to the days when he looks at the early days of younger ones shows how life comes in a complete circle as time passes. In the midst of this, the author explores many themes and thoughts that incarnate Samrat’s life and the lives of many. These include the importance of family, compassion in relationships, complexities that life can throw at a person, the ability to adapt and adjust to new situations, and the significance of living on specific standards. Other thoughts that the readers may trace in the book include the world above materialistic madness; the marvels hard work can do in someone’s life, human beings and their emotional vulnerability, and the fact that those who live for others while living for themselves are remembered later.

The story of “Samrat” touches the hearts of the readers both due to the purity of emotion with which the author portrays his life and also the faithfulness with which she builds it. At one juncture, the readers reminisce their lives with Samrat’s habits and mischief, and on the other hand, also see the mature version as times change. They would also be able to relate to it as they would have gone through similar circumstances. This opens Sahu’s book to reading by people of all ages. Younger readers would be able to enjoy the younger days of Samrat and learn about life in the later phases of the story, while the grown-up readers would be able to both reminisce and relate to the protagonist’s life. In addition, the author uses a language that all readers can read.

Parents can also read this book to their children or choose this book to be read by their children for the content and the values the book imparts. These values would be instrumental in shaping their sensitivity as a human, therefore, “Samrat” would be a good book for children too. At the same time, the subtitle, “who never gives up,” also becomes significant since it teaches a crucial value of striving to thrive in life and not giving up no matter how challenging life becomes. In this light, the book also becomes a piece of motivational writing, and the readers carry the impression of taking life head-on in all circumstances. It also instills the readers with optimism even when Samrat faces adverse events.

INTERVIEW WITH AUTHOR MUKUL RANJAN

Mukul Ranjan is a director and screenwriter in Hindi film industry. His origins lie in Bihar's Madhubani district. He is a humanities graduate from Tilka Manjhi Bhagalpur University. Later he took his Master's degree in Journalism from Mumbai University. Journalism was not his calling as he considers himself primarily a raconteur. He started his career as a screen writer with a Hindi film. He has written and directed several movies, documentaries and TV shows. Singing, travelling and working towards sustainable living are his hobbies. COLD COCK is his debut novel.

Tell us the story behind the creation of “Cold Cock.” What were the events that led to its creation?

I was trying to write a novel. I had several stories in mind for it. But I set it up inside a TV channel to make it more lively and found it to be a fresh setting for a novel. The glamour aspect of it, weird characters, the lingo, everything fell into place after it.

“Cold Cock” is developed in an abstract manner that reaches the readers in no time. Did you have any other ideas for its construction or chose the poetry format for writing in the first place?

I had other ideas definitely for building up the narrative. But after mulling for a long time on the technique I decided on this route to make it easily absorbent for my readers. Techniques, if applied wrongly, defeat the whole purpose, mostly. So, I kept it minimal and abstract.

“Cold Cock” strongly stimulates the readers to take an objective approach and understand life in that light. How did you as a person develop this approach?

It happens with time. Nature finds a way to prepare you for your future life; first as parents in the house, second as teacher in the school and finally, third as a senior or boss at the work place. Then one sits back and tries to apply one's mind to the challenges his/her life throws ahead.

How would you describe your literary endeavours and all that went into your making as a writer before “Cold Cock” materialized?

I have been writing for newspapers, magazines and radio since my college days. I chose to be a screen writer in the Hindi film industry after training as a journalist. I also have my blog site where I write blogs regularly. So the next step was writing a novel. Cold Cock is a junction, metaphorically speaking, for my long journey as a writer !

As a title, “Cold Cock” carries associations that touch multiple dimensions. What is the story behind its creation?

I was waiting for this question. Lot of people have asked me why the title of my debut novel is Cold Cock. Please allow me to be immodest for once. The story of naming it Cold Cock is as interesting as the novel itself. After I finished writing it I had a title. And obviously, I was excited about it. But with time I started looking for a different title. So another title came to me. I was happy and thought I would stick to it. But again, I was itchy to get a nice title. Look, I seriously believe that if the title is apt half the job is done. A full year passed and there was no title. With time I forgot about both, my novel and its new title.

There are so many unique perspectives in your “Cold Cock.” What is the most challenging thing about writing such complexity in a simpler version?

I call it ‘detach the attachment’. Its a thin, challenging transparent line as an author. One needs to be attached to one’s characters to figure out everything that they would do next. And at the same time, stay detached in order to remain objective and keep it simple. I believe that is how one gains the trust of one’s readers and followers.

I wish you luck with your future ventures and hope to read more powerful and exciting books from your pen. Thank you for sparing your time.

Thank you so much for this lovely conversation. And for providing me this platform to express my thoughts.

Book Review : "You Can Become Rich"

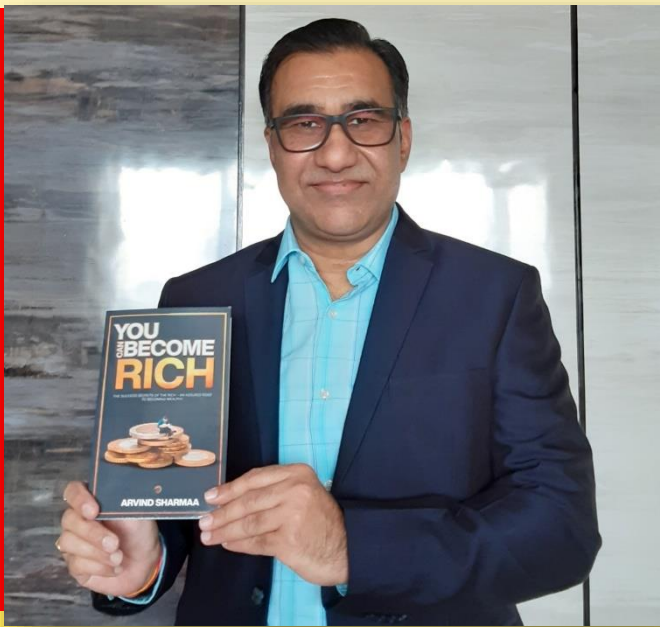

One cannot deny the importance of money in life. It would be an escapist saying that only good virtues are needed to lead a happy life. Money is that one thing which can buy almost everything. It all depends on an individual to choose the way to earn money and live with it. We have many people who earn according to their mettle and have set up standards on how to lead a quality life. It is always a hypothetical argument on comparing happiness against money. Who doesn't want money, and most importantly, who doesn't want to be rich? The word rich has many layers. A rich person can be that person who is able to earn that much, which makes him happy, his family comfortable, and his life peaceful. A rich man is a man who is able to draw the amount of money in an emergency when a health issue arises suddenly, without seeking a loan from anywhere. A rich man also has dozens of the costliest cars, a holiday home, and lots of investments around. Well, we can never deny the famous saying- Money is Honey!

“You Can Become Rich”

Our attitude towards money starts from a very early age, say 5 or 6 years. When an aunt or grandma visits us over the summer holidays, they give a coin or a note to buy some chocolates and save the rest; a foundation for saving and investing starts. We can also see that children enact themselves as working parents, servant-master, and officer-employee where the words money and salary are often used. Thus, money is an integral part of growing from a child to a good and intelligent investor.

In this book by Anand Sharma, the importance of money and how to become rich is explained in a hassle-free language with easy vocabulary and simple terms. The book has eleven chapters, and each chapter has its own charm of attracting the readers towards the important steps to be taken when one wants to become rich. The first chapter, The Power of Desire, clearly explains the amount of interest and enthusiasm that a person must develop from every nook and corner of his mind to buck up himself to earn and become rich. Likewise, in the other chapters, the author tries to instigate the interest in saving money and investing it in the future.

Interview with Author Arvind Sharma

Hello Arvind, Congratulations on the book. We would like to know more about you!

Thank You so much! I am an HR professional with 25 years' experience in the field of HR. Writing is more of a hobby and I am yet to make big inroads in this space. With just three books (Infinite Intelligence, The Highest Wisdom and You Can Become Rich) to my credit, I am still learning the craft of writing and wish to create some bestsellers in future. If my writing can bring about even a small positive difference in the lives of some people, I would consider myself blessed and fortunate.

What was that one particular thing that made you write this book?

I think everybody wants to achieve financial success in life but not everybody has access to the wisdom required to do so. I wanted to write on this topic in order to share my learnings about financial wisdom and the significant role it plays in one becoming rich.

The title is powerful and striking. How did you end up having this as the title?

I wanted to keep the topic very genuine and something that everybody could easily relate to. That's how I decide to coin this topic.

In your terms, not as an author but an ordinary man – What is money to you and how important it is?

Money is important from the perspective of having the freedom to live life on your terms.

Is there any particular incident in your life that made you feel for a second if I were as rich as that XYZ person?

I would be happy just being myself and having the freedom to live and enjoy life on my terms. That according to me is true success.

Which is your favourite chapter from the book? And why?

The chapter on “The Power of Desire” is my most favorite since without a strong desire one can never achieve anything significant in life.

What books did you read that talk about the importance of money, saving and investing?

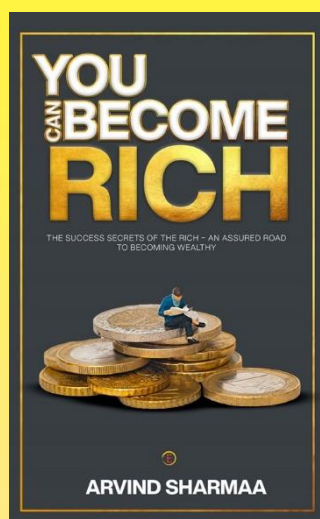

Think and Grow Rich, Rich Dad Poor Dad, 7 laws of Abundance, The Millionaire Mindset, Warren Buffet Investing.

In a friendly manner, if there was one situation to imagine during the Pandemic that you wanted to change with all the money you had, what is\was that?

If deaths of all the people who lost lives during the pandemic could be avoided with money, then I would have loved to do so.

Your message to the people who plan to earn and save.

You can become rich if you acquire financial wisdom and start implementing the habits of saving and investing on a regular basis.

Interview with Author Anil Manawat

This Book is content of 238 pages, with LOVE, FLIRT, HURT, MISSYOU and VALENTINE week CELEBRATIONS shayaris in simple and connecting language to match all the generations thoughts and there needs in these busy life...

Why did you name the book – Love ka Lover Dose?

This book is written to cater the rapport of current generation's demand and to suit their thoughts in simple language and little bit catchy name, so it has been titled 'LOVE KA OVER DOSE'.

What inspired you to write your book – Love ka Lover Dose?

When I saw today's generations are not finding themselves romantic bcs of their busy schedule life, I thought and wrote book for today's generation by these simple and pleasure book.

You have written something different from the trend in poetry nowadays. How tough was it for you?

Yes, Youngsters are now digitalized a lot, and they lost interest in typical shayris, but my shayaris are 2, 4 and 6 liners only and they are in very simple hindi or English language which will connect their heart to feel Love and emotions...

Tell us something about your book – Love ka lover dose?

Interview with Author Vibhor Gupta

Welcome to The Rise Insight Journals, author. Congratulations on the release of your book. What responses are you getting from your readers? Please share your experience with this book.

Thank you so much and I am really glad to be here and sharing my experiences , its been a great journey so far I am getting a really good feedback from the readers and its helping them in their trading and investment objective. There is an increasing interest in understanding Futures and Options business.

What encourages you to become an Author?

Over the years I gained knowledge and experience in Futures and Options and so I wanted to help people in understanding this business. My motto is learn and earn from stock market.

What are your favorite topics of writing? Please tell us something about your interest areas in the literature.

I am also intrested in writing on the topics related to Health,Vedic Maths,Telecom and Spirituality.

We were hoping you could tell us about some of those writers who had inspired you and whom you follow!

EchartTolle is my favourite author and I am very much inspired by his writing style. One of his book “The Power of Now” gives most powerful insights on spirituality.

The titles seem different and catchy; how you decided it? Please let us know the story behind it.

There are lot of information's available here and there related to futures and options which may confused traders and investors , most of the them learnt in a hard way after having severe losses. I think its not always necessary to learn stock market by our own experiences, crisp and clear document on the subject including undisclosed stuff on the subject may help them to have a complete control in this business.

What is your current goal in writing a career? How do you see your future in writing?

My goal is to contribute more write-ups on strategic investments .As I am an active trader and investor, I more intend to write based on practical experiences.

Are there any other books being worked by you? Please let us know about your future projects.

Yes, I am planning to write 2 more books in the future. One on investment “All about investment in stock market – How to Spot Future Multibaggers” and another on stock market trading “All about Profitable Strategies in Stock Market”

How you see Indian writing in the 21st century? What changes do you see in the modern way of writing? Do you feel it has been changed by the time?

I don't think of myself as a writer and hence not fair to comment on it. But yes I can say fairly about my way of writing. My writing comes out of my passion for stock market and I have written in such a way that even the people do not belong to this field can understand , written in a very simplified manner so that each and every reader can understand what I am trying to convey to them.

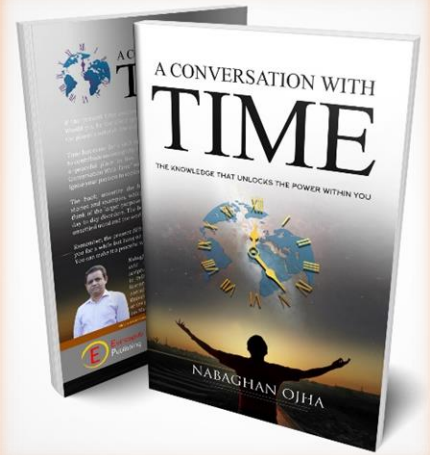

How easy/ difficult it was for you to publish your book? What message would you like to give to budding authors?

It took me around 6 months to write this book and yet I was correcting the errors and tried to find a way to make this book better day by day.

I am thankful to Evincepub publication, they have a very professional and supporting team without their active involvement, this would not have been possible.

Interview with Author Nabaghan Ojha

Soudia Parveen:- A heartfelt congratulation for the publication of your book "A Conversation With Time". How has been the responses towards the book till now?

Nabaghan Ojha:- Thank you so much Soudia. Since my book "A Conversation With Time" released in December 2021, the response, as of now, is quite big and very astounding. The queries and the calls that I am getting every day show how the readers have been engaged actively in the book. I feel excited about the title of the book as well. Almost everyone speaks how I choose such a beautiful title which is actually a different. The beauty of the book is its title which is perfectly matched with the contents of the book. I am very much sure that the book will touch its peak in a short time period.

Soudia Parveen:- You have taken a great step in writing such a book to guide one's life! What in real inspired you to do so and how has been the outcome?

Nabaghan Ojha:- This particular question I have been facing since the book is released. Let me put my honest views here. In the last of couple of years, I moved beyond my comfort zone to understand the society more closely by way of empowering some people, getting into their life situations, finding ways for them, researching the development issues etc. I found a big gap between the service delivery and acceptance of its recipients. When I started becoming real, I was behaved very unreal. The pain of the unreal behaviour was very high and sometime unbearable. One fine evening someone close to me whispered "why don't you create examples by using the power of words as a strategy for the people who actually are derailed and less connected to the society". This particular sentence ignited me to invent a new path in my life. And the outcome is clearly visible now. I can make a tall claim that I could purpose this book in a big way and place it in a right time for the right audience across space and time.

Soudia Parveen:- Was it difficult or easy to frame and conceptualize the minute details of the fundamentals of life and consequences of it? How did you manage to put the critical key concepts in a story format?

Nabaghan Ojha:- Well. It was actually not an easy task. Unless someone is not deeply involved in the societal issues it is really difficult to pen something for the society. I am fortunate enough that in last two decades I could closely work with people of different strata to understand them and their life situations. When I started writing this book in the beginning, I was lost in the confusions and dilemmas. It was difficult to conceptualise how to start and where to end. It took almost a month to ideate the entire story which is presented in the book. The day my subconscious mind accepts the idea without any conflict, I did not stop after that. And of course to present the conceived idea in a productive way to the readers, I have gone through many scriptures and books. I really found difficult when I tried to blend the tradition with the modern science. And the most vital guiding document for me is the holy "Bhagawat Gita" from which I got the real strength in bringing my idea into a reality.

Soudia Parveen:- The book is all about two protagonists "Nishit" and "Yogeshwar", what would you like to say about these characters in reference to the realms of life?

Nabaghan Ojha:- I love the name Nishit and I designed him in my dream for this important character in my book. In my dream Nishit is an innocent guy but a strongest soldier of God. That is probably the reason why he suffered a lot in his life. Just because he is a simple and honest everyone plays with him. When the pain becomes unbearable he is caught by God who shows him the right way to design a new age where all livings could feel safe. Yogeshwar is the other name of Lord Krishna. So I picked this beautiful name as the mentor of Nishit. Yogeshwar is the person who speaks to time in the entire story. He speaks to the entire mankind for an awakening towards transformation.

Soudia Parveen :- For the reader it will be very helpful to develop a better perception and make fruitful utilization of time in accordance to mend a better life, What more do you want to add up to this context?

Nabaghan Ojha:- If you read the book you will find how precious is the time and how powerful is time. I would suggest to utilise each moment productively. Living in the present is best strategy of life and that is only possible if you could purpose your life. This will help you to take new risks, moving towards your growth zone which can eventually land you at your destination. This will give you lasting happiness. This will make you an honest leader in the society. If you could use the time productively you will never feel regret at the end of life. You will live the life fully. At the end you will feel proud of you and remembered as a hero for the people.

Soudia Parveen:- What kind of strategy do you personally suggest to the beings, especially for those who feels like quitting and underestimating their inner self?

Nabaghan Ojha:- Quitting is the worst decision in life and underestimating the inner self is the worst feeling. Wise persons never do this. Remember that the beauty of life starts just before you quit. It is very easy to quit but it needs real courage to try again and again. The mind expands when you will remain in the situation, face it and try in different ways. You may fail several times but never quit. The people who underestimate their inner self are actually in fear. They don't want to leave their comfort zone. But in true sense the real transformation requires you to step into new environments, meet new people, and do things that you're not used to. This may make you scary and bring fear in you. But when you start to feel fear, re-frame it and tell yourself that you're highly excited. Embrace the feeling and don't let it stop you. Remember that anything which is not extraordinary is just waste of time. Be a leader in your work and perform at the highest level. Then you will just forget of quitting and underestimate your inner self.

Soudia Parveen:- In conclusion to the book, what message do you want to leave for the reader as well as the budding writers? In future, will you come up with more such books, containing relevant knowledge?

Nabaghan Ojha:- I would suggest the readers to understand the purpose of the book which speaks about strategies to deal the transitional society. Think how and in whatever form can you contribute for the betterment of the society. Like a humming bird, you can just make a start and sustain it. I am sure people will join you soon. The moment you act in this way, your vision of life will be changed and society will start changing for you. Please remember that our next generations will live in this society and whatever legacy we leave, will be the guiding principle for them. If we want them to live in a better society let's make it for them.

And yes, my next books will speak about the higher versions of societal stories and I am sure all my books in future will be penned to ignite the readers for transformation. I would also request the budding writers to leave a big message for the readers through their book whether it is fiction or nonfiction. Let's explore the real power of pen and words.

Soudia Parveen:- I value and respect your opinion so far and I really appreciate your words and very thankful to you for sparing your precious time in sharing your humble words.

More power to your pen. All the best.

Nabaghan Ojha:-

Thank you so much Soudia.

Book Review

Title: The Souvenir Author: Baishali Sarkar

No matter how rapidly time passes by or how effectively it brings a change to one's life, the person would never forget the traditions, heritage, Belongingness, motherhood of the land, one walked in at first. Similarly one has the caliber to inherit the traditions from another culture when encountered. To this context, Baishali Sarkar's book "The Souvenir" is a collection of poetries stating the different aspects of her life experiences in the form of short poetries.

90's kids will definitely recollect the memories from the lines depicting the era of simplicity and Power-cuts. The author believes that every pages when turned over will throw a positive gesture to one's imagination and cherish the memories effectively. The author also firmly believes that if she sits with the book in her 60's, she won't regret jotting the memories, she created and lived for and by, herself. The most eye-catching factor of this wonderful poetry book is that ending is left with a picture which is very close to the author's heart.

The very first picture input is of a laughing buddha following the context of "the souvenir" at first depicts "a good luck to wherever it is placed turning the book into a success in the future" as quoted by the author.

Being a research scholar of the department of Buddhist studies, she has a thoughtful mind showering a bunch of words in accordance to the factors dealt with, and lived in, by one.

The attention of a reader's mind is caught in the very second poem that is "Bhalo-Maa" (A name by which the author used to call her maternal grandmother). The person and the poetry as shown and described by the author is very emotionally attached to the author's life and pen respectively.

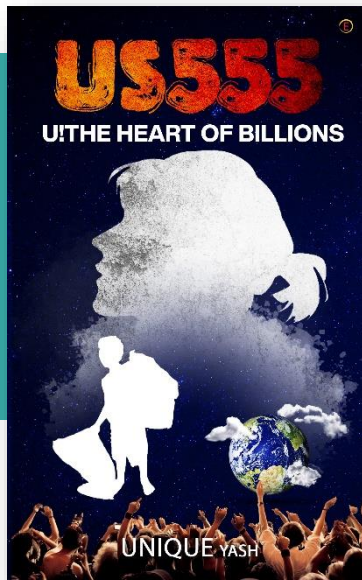

She beautifully draws an image in every reader's mind through the word inputs and her bond with her grandmother who inherited the traditions of Bangladesh and vibed as a "bong lady" whose soul is now alive within the author eternally.

In remembrance of her grandmother, the author did a septum piercing which once indicated the richness in beauty on her grandmother's face.

From her preschool to her graduation, the author takes every reader's mind to a roller coaster of memories. Being a travel person, her visit to each and every place and the collection of those memories has been jotted down in the sheets of the book. To this context, one of her poem named "Downtown Chiayi" turns out in a humorous way since the author puts forward her experience of how she went astray on her way back from a city of Taiwan.

Last but not the least, a masterpiece like this book "The souvenir" contains a poem named "Karma" which has the deepest meaning underlying. "Karma", as presented by the author is not only the sum of a person's deed deciding their future but also the name of her pet dog with which she intellectually framed the words into that sentences presenting the movement of karma as well as her pet dog named " Karma".

Therefore reading "The Souvenir" by Baishali Sarkar is the best recommended book to be considered alongside one's bed and bookshelf or most probably is the best combination to be kept along with some snacks and tea in every date with one's inner-self, serving a positive mind and a positive vibe.

Book Review

US 555
THE HEART OF BILLIONS

Author: Unique Yash

“The world is a not a sweet place for everyone, sometimes even the closest ones of yours can turn their back towards you and move away. So, all that matters is to keep moving ahead in your life, even when life offers you all the painful & harsh realities!”

This unique book, “US555: U! The Heart Of Billions” by Author Unique Yash tells the readers a very painful and yet a motivational story. The Author talks about some beyond the world things in this book, which are just imaginary but bit scary too. This book may amaze you with its extraordinary fictional tales or it may arouse some critical questions about the writing carried out by the author in his book. Moreover, there is not a single shred of doubt that this book is too unique, which is trying to tell the readers a story in a very eccentric manner!

Author’s Background: The whole world is in front of you that means ‘Unique Yash’ is in front of you. The Author, Unique Yash is an Electrical Engineering 2nd year dropout student from Imperial Institute of Technology in Jaipur. The Author dropped out just because of his dreams, as he believed in two things after his father; the first is ingredients of dream while the second is that the only religion, which exists in this world, is “Hardwork Religion”.

The Author, Unique Yash along with the publisher, Evincepub Publishing have laid the foundation for this to change the world that is in front of you!

Book's Introduction: The book, "US555: U! The Heart Of Billions" by Author Unique Yash is a "Tragedy Fictional Book" presenting the book readers with some real painful stories and preaching the message of fighting with the world in order to fulfil your dreams and responsibilities. The book tells the readers a very painful and harsh reality of the world that you are all alone and probably no one is going to be there with you forever!

The book further tells that one must fight with the world for the righteousness even when the person is all alone. As the Author believes that sometimes being all alone might be yours biggest asset. In addition, the Author also believes in dreams, hardwork, sacrifices, passion, success and growth, which reflects in the stories of this book.

Book Title: The title of this book, "US555: U! The Heart Of Billions" is far to unique and bit uncommon too. Nevertheless, something this much unique will definitely make the readers feel the urge to pick up this book, so in a way we can conclude that the Author has been very clever to go with this book title. Well, the title of the book will make you not only pick this book but also go through the whole book in order to understand the symbolism of this book title.

Readers' Connect: The uniqueness of this book, US555: U! The Heart Of Billions is that the Author has laid down the truth of the life in front of the readers. The harsh and the spine chilling truth that almost each one of us in this world is alone and we all need to learn the art of taking our independent stance in this world. As there are going to be times when even your closest ones will turn their backs towards you; hence, the only thing that will help you in those times of adversity is your ability of standing out for yourself without depending upon anyone else!

Book's Verdict: Well, a book like US555: U! The Heart Of Billions could be described as a "Tragic Tale of Motivation!" The readers can either understand the message, which the Author is trying to convey through his book or may fail in recognising the author's message, since the book is too unique! Anyways that is something, which always gives the benefit of doubt to the author; therefore, the readers must pick up this book and give it a read.

Moreover, the Author has been very honest with his writing in this book, which actually makes it a MUST READ one! In addition Author, Unique Yash must be given a chance by the readers for his hard work.

Book Review: Soch Sanjeevani

Author: Vaibhav Pande

“Poetry is the play of right words with some of the most in-describable emotions, while poets are those players who plays with the beautiful words and makes way to compose these heart touching and soulful poems for us!”

Reviewing this beautiful poetry collection book, “Soch Sanjeevani” by Author-Poet Vaibhav Pande has been a very satisfying experience to me since I too started my writing journey as a poet just like our Author here. And now whenever I get a chance to review a Poetry Collection book, I not only enjoy reading these new and expressive poems, where the Poet conveys some unheard messages through their words, but also I get the opportunity to learn something new regarding the composition of poetry, each time!

The Author, Vaibhav Pande is a popular as well as a multi visionary speaker in India. He is also the CEO of an organizational body with the name of ‘Twin Win’ where he had provided personality development and self growth training to lakhs of students of India and around the world too!

Book Review: OLIVE DIARIES

Reviewed By: Neel Preet

Author: Hemant Saxena

“True courage results in some extraordinary outcomes, something which we hope for deep down in our hearts but don’t expect in our practical life and yet life surprises us with some beyond imaginable out-turns, only because of our courageous and bold decisions!”

Well, before starting the review of this amazing title, Olive Diaries by Author Hemant Saxena let me give the disclaimer as mentioned in the book itself. The stories in this thrilling novel are very sensitive and are born out of some very personal and intimate experiences of the Author. The Author, who is an Indian Army has spent over three decade in the Indian National Army as a Commissioned Officer.

About the Author: The Author, Colonel Hemant Saxena is a soldier-scholar and an Indian Army veteran. He is best described as a wanderer on his journey to be a published author with a collection of stories titled ‘Olive Diaries.’ Colonel Saxena has many stories to share with his readers that are based on his personal experiences spanning over three decades in the Indian Army. A civil engineer by education, Colonel Saxena had started his career as a Sapper in the Indian Army in 1984 and later during 1991; he transited to Military Intelligence branch where he served there until superannuation in 2015. This stint helped him to get a rare insight into the finer nuances of World’s second oldest profession shrouded in the mystery of cloak and dagger, which is also reflected in his writings.

Colonel Hemant Saxena has acquired graduate degree in Civil Engineering from Government Engineering College, Jabalpur (1983), a Master’s in Business Administration from Amity University, Uttar Pradesh (2012) and he is also a qualified instructor in Information Warfare from Army War College, Mhow (2012).

His interest in writing developed during the early phase of his student life where he experimented with stories, poems, and theatre scripts for school/college festivals and magazines. Of late, he has been writing for Dainik Bhaskar (Hindi) on matters related to defence after superannuation from the Army service. Olive Diaries; a collection of seven stories, is the first book of the author.

Book's Introduction: This book, Olive Diaries by Author Hemant Saxena is a collection of some very sensitive stories from the lines of fire, which a soldier experiences in the battlefields. These stories rise above the stereotype projection of military heroes and their lives in a predictable manner where the characters are often seen wearing patriotism on their sleeves.

There are a total of “7 Thrilling Chapters” in this book and they serve the readers with those precious moments from the lives of the ordinary people and their extraordinary deeds. Moreover, the chapters in this book had made an attempt to highlight the bravery of our Veer Jawaans, who never complains when it comes to serving the nation. This book is for all those readers, who are not afraid of breaking the myths and stereotypes that have been built around the sentinels of our great nation!

Book Title: The title of this book, “Olive Diaries” is most certainly a catchy title and this is something, which makes the book even more interesting as the title itself compels you as a reader to pick up this book for a read. You would feel a longing urge to dive inside the chapters of this book and try to understand the stories from the Author's own perspective!

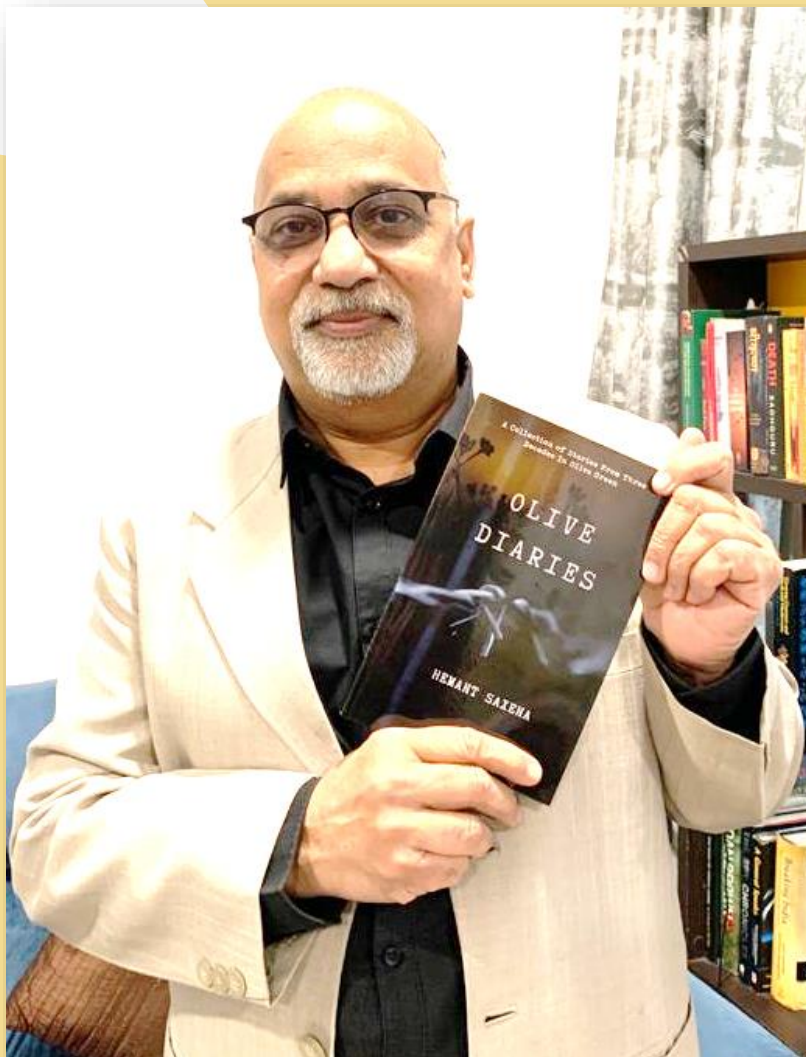

Well, without any shred of doubt, Author Hemant Saxena has completely succeeded in choosing a perfect Title for his book and his writings too had fully justified the title. Therefore, I must mention that it is a very apt title for this book and the Author had been extremely wise to go for this title!

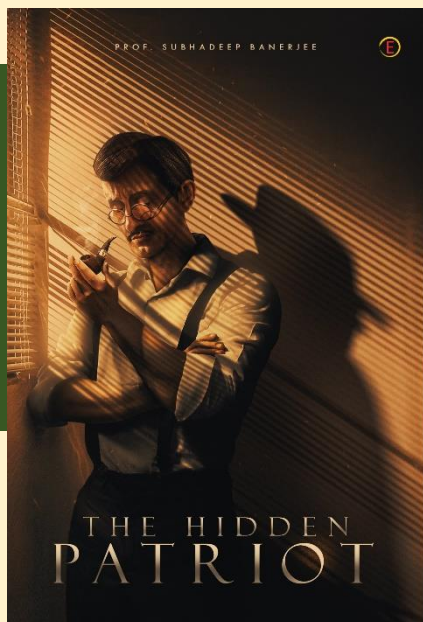

Readers Connect: Through this book, Author Hemant Saxena has very vividly painted an immortal picture of the exceptional bravery and courage of the faceless heroes who put out their heart and soul into each and everything that they do for their nation. These stories very gently reveal to the readers the finer nuances of the lives of our real heroes while they live their qualifying acts. The book very clearly highlights the role of our brave hearted soldiers who go on doing what they think they ought to be doing, unmindful of the fact that it invariably remains much beyond to the call of their duties.

The book, “Olive Diaries” is something purely incredible; in addition, these stories are presenting the readers with enough reasons to shift their focus towards the lives of our mighty soldiers who are real protector of our nation!

Verdict: A Book like “Olive Diaries” is for sure a Must-Read one and deserves a chance, since you do not get to read a book like this every now and then in the market. The way Author had penned down his experiences through these seven sensitive as well as marvellous chapters in his book it certainly deserves an appreciation. His work is praise worthy as he has succeeded in painting an immortal picture of our Veer Jawaans, through his writings.

Moreover, if you are looking for something truly worthy and out of the box to read then this book is the most-perfect fit for you. The chapters are indeed reading worthy and Author, Hemant Saxena is a promising Author, who is very honest with his writings, which the readers can feel through his spectacular writings!

THE HIDDEN PATRIOT

Prof. Subhadeep Banerjee

About The Author :

Prof. Subhadeep Banerjee was born and grew up in Calcutta, the cultural capital of India. He is very passionate about cinema and music. In particular, he is very fond of classic Hollywood movies dating back to 1940s and 50s era. He is inspired by the style of storytelling built around powerful central characters as depicted in those movies. Subhadeep is also deeply motivated by the exploits of freedom fighter Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose in challenging the might of the British Empire and helping India secure her freedom from British rule and is very keen to learn the truth about the disappearance of Netaji post 18th August 1945. He feels that the various stories of revolutionary uprisings against the British Raj need to be told sufficiently for the present generation and posterity. Thus, he has embarked upon a new journey in the field of writing historical fiction about pre-independent India.

He is a scientist by training who did his MS in Chemistry from Cornell University followed by a PhD from University of Connecticut in 2011. He is an academic by profession and is employed as an associate professor of Chemistry at Birla Institute of Technology and Science Pilani KK Birla Goa Campus since 2013. His other hobbies include playing guitar and enjoys a wide variety of musical genres ranging from classic rock, heavy metal to Bollywood numbers.

Patriotism or national pride is the feeling of love, devotion, and sense of attachment to a homeland or the country and alliance with other citizens who share the same sentiment to create a feeling of oneness among the people. Devoted to such books with fictional characters holding such pride within and the audacity to offer something fruitful for the homeland leaves a great impact onto the readers.

Similarly the book "The Hidden Patriot" by Prof. Subhadeep Banerjee is a fictional book with a character with a fascinating story engaging the interest to a marked degree, showing gratitude and truth. This is a story inspired by patriotism stirring patriotic organisations patriotic feelings and meeting up the criteria of being devoted to and for the country.

The title precisely depicts that a person who regards himself as a defender, especially of individual rights, against presumed interference by the federal government and serves it's motherland by hiding and secretly analysing the criterias and working against British rule as per the chapters of this book.

The fictional story revolves around the specific period of time while the British Raj was in the headlines. It collects the realms from that period when after the first war for Indian independence, the British Government took over the administration to establish the British Raj.

The rebellion was a major turning point in the history of modern India.

What misfortune would move towards or be attracted to him towards anti-British activities inspired by Netaji Subhas and turn him into a person who is thought to be guilty of a crime? How would Ghosh emerge uninjured to become a government minister post independence? And what discovery would he make about his past life? All these questions will definitely be solved by the preceding chapters of this book.

The answers to these questions would be revealed in this journey of surveillance, self-realisation and gratitude.

The attention taking factor from the readers is patriotism is the zealous love for one's country. It's like a disease that every man carries.

There is no cure for such a disease; for this is one of pure determination and pride. The definition of patriotism cannot be defined by a dictionary, but by people. This book would definitely be a success for the incredible inputs.

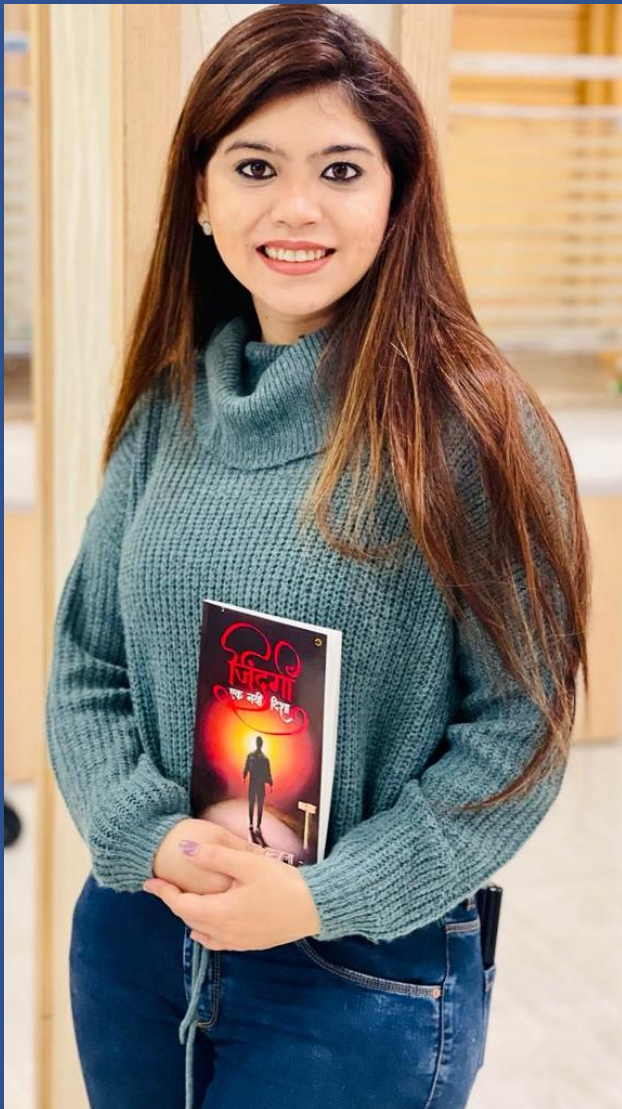

Author Story: Heena Talwar Sadana

Self-help books are those souls that travel with us in times of personal turmoil and console us like our friends. Though there is a quite mockery amongst some readers about these books, they always turn out to be helpful. The pandemic year 2020 gave writers and authors a great opportunity to explore new horizons on human life and mental health. The loss of their loved ones, jobs, opportunities and many deaths around has had many people force themselves into a gush of stress and fear. But as the saying goes, books are the best friends; self-help books were the only friends. At this juncture, I also happened to read a few books last year and this year. Once I started reading, there were signs from the destiny to pick up more books on self-help, spirituality, and philosophy. After Life Quotes by Pemmaraju, I soon found myself reading this engrossing yet scintillating book. Read on to know what I think about Heena Talwar Sadana's – Zindagi, Ek Nayi Disha gave me!

Beautiful Introductory Paragraph

Though most of the books have an introduction, it is written in a general tone and tense. But in this book, the assurance that the author gives about the takeaways from the book is beautiful. She says, whenever you feel low or life crisis, embrace this book and read at least one part a day, and it will transform your mood and will inspire you. It is almost a friend talking to you.

आया है दुनिया में सबके साथ,
पर जाना है लेकर खाली हाथ!

About the author:

Heena Talwar Sadana is an MBA graduate, .NET certified personnel. To be precise, she has few other qualifications—despite being a certified graduate, she chose to look after her family. Apart from being a successful daughter, wife and homemaker, she is also a businesswoman who manages the family business. To lead a purposeful and quality life, her strive to lead a positive and inspiring life is the motto behind writing this book. Inspired by her own life, author Heena Talwar Sadana's book is a must-read.

About the book:

Zindagi, Ek nayi disha contains life lessons inspired by the author's simple yet positive life and lifestyle. The book is divided into small chapters, and each chapter leaves the readers to relate to their own life, thus giving them new hope. The book intends to rekindle hope and positivity towards life.

Inside the book:

With an interesting section dedicated to credits, a letter from the author's father, and the author's introduction, the book starts with a positive feeling. The book has 35 chapters that are short, effective and inspiring to read. The first and foremost chapter explaining what life is is an important piece to be discussed about. In a poetic format, with good rhyming and rich vocabulary, author Heena grabs the reader's attention. In the middle of the poem, the below lines attracted me a lot. Apart from the above lines, those musings, life lessons, experiences, incidents and situations that every one of us have faced in life are discussed. There are some places in the chapters where the readers will ponder over their memory lane and rethink some decisions. Reminiscing the past won't change what has happened but will definitely give us a chance to correct ourselves. This is what exactly the chapters in the book do.

Final Thoughts:

Written in simple and understandable language, this book by Heena Talwar Sadana is an interesting read to rethink the past and plan the future with new and positive energy. This book can be a good help for those youngsters and people who are looking for some inspiration. Not many can reach a life coach; in such times, books like these will be of great help!

About the Book: This book, “The Ocean In My Sky” by Author Ann Treasa Joseph is more of a “Tragedy Fictional Book” presenting the book readers with some real painful stories. The book is filled with alluring imagery all over, giving both frightening as well as beautiful impression. The readers are bound to find a magical journey in this book, which is unfolded with verses to add to its aesthetics. Author’s story bestows vivid imageries upon you, which dwell on your thoughts. The pages of this fantasy novel are very wonderfully designed with illustrations using various colour tones to capture the mood of the story!

The book further presents the readers with the agonizing story of a mother’s sacrifice, the son’s sorrow as he awaits for his mother and the misery of those innocent ones who had lost their love. This is also the story of the boundless sky and her precious ornaments – the sun, the moon and the stars.

Book Title: The title of this book, “The Ocean In My Sky” is seriously very beautiful and a ‘Catchy’ one too and the Author has been truly wise to go with such a lovely title for her book. Well, the title of the book will not only make you pick this book but also go through the whole book in order to understand the symbolism of this book title. Therefore, it reflects the smartness of the author to come up with such a brilliant book title!

Book Cover: Moreover, if we look towards the Book Cover then undoubtedly one can say that the cover is indeed alluring and creating a very creative impression towards the work of the Author. The book cover is making this Fantasy Fictional Novel look even more interesting and is indeed creating a very mesmerizing effect upon the readers. Moreover, another very interesting fact regarding the cover of this book is that the Author herself has designed this wonderful and unique cover for her book.

Book’s Illustrations: The uniqueness of this book lays in the illustrations, which are present inside the book. Almost each and every single page in this book portrays some illustrations, giving a perfect theme to the stories inside the book. The manner, in which these illustrations are present all over the book, simply reflects the out of the box idea, which the Author had for her book.

Book’s Verdict: Well, a book like ‘The Ocean In My Sky’ may amaze you with its extraordinary fictional tales or it may arouse some critical questions about the writing carried out by the author in her book. Well, whatever may be the opinion of the readers but in any case, this tragedy fictional novel a MUST READ one for sure! In addition, Author Ann Treasa Joseph should be given a chance by the readers for her hard work and creativity, which simply is incredible.

CHILIKA: The Paradise For Migratory Birds

“A thing of beauty is a joy forever” – John Keats

Nature’s beauty is an irreplaceable thing. Its beauty never fades irrespective of environmental changes. The poet’s line satisfies it perfectly. It converts a normal person to a poet and a nature lover.

Nature hypnotizes and cuddles by its charm. When it comes to discuss nature and birds, Chilika Lake in Odisha is one of the best places to relish heavenly natural beauty. It covers three districts of Odisha namely Puri, Khordha, and Ganjam.

It is the ultimate heaven for birds. It’s a major attraction of birds in winter where lakhs of migratory birds come from different directions like Russia, Ladakh, Southeast Asia, and Central Asia to stay during the winter season.

In winter, the Chilika lake and the greenery around it look like a bride who wears colorful sites and golden sunset views.

Many famous poets in Odisha have written masterpieces on Chilika lake which have attracted readers and visitors to visit Chilika. The poetry “Chilika” by great Odia poet Radhanath Ray had got a lot of appreciation and love from people as it narrates the scenic beauty of Chilika excellently.

Another great poet Utkalamani Gopabandhu Das had expressed his feelings to enjoy the beauty of lake Chilika when he was going to jail during the British period as a freedom fighter. His lines narrate that he wanted to stop the train for a while for being caged by the beauty of Chilika. Till now these poetries are incredible by those great poets and irreplaceable masterpieces for Odia literature.

Chilika is one of the best places which was awarded as Ramsar Wetland conservation award in the year 2002. In the same year, it has also awarded as the Indira Gandhi Paryavaran Puraskar for the contribution towards conservation, the wise use of wetland, and the ecosystem. There are many islands namely Nalabana, the Parikud, Maluda, the breakfast island, the bird's island, etc over here which enhances the beauty of Chilika lake. Many islands disappear due to heavy rain in Monsoon.

Most of the people here living by depending upon selling fishes, wide range on trade and commerce. Lots of tourists enjoy the sites of Chilika by naubihara (sailing boats). Its an attraction for ecotourism for many varieties of flora and fauna.

Satapada is the village here, from there the view of Chilika can be seen provides the view of dolphins. Chilika is famous for the largest brackish water lake and the largest lagoon in India. It is also listed as a UNESCO world heritage site.

Self love patience : which can teach us a lot

Now it's time to take our third step towards loving ourselves. During this whole process of loving yourself, patience plays a very important role. Patience means "the capacity to accept or tolerate delay, problems, or suffering without becoming annoyed". I think we all know the meaning of patience and their importance's. But why is patience so important for us and especially for young people? why our elders always suggest us to take every decision with some patience. Why they are always like "you should deal every situation with patience, I mean why? During this fast-moving era. We always want to be the first and we always prefer the fastest way to find our result that's why a lot of time we put ourselves in a hard or I should say in a depressing situation, from where we cannot find a way to come out by our own. Let's ask ourselves that what patience can, actually provide us.

This eight-letters word Patience play a very small but really important role in our life. Let me explain to you with an example: as Rivers knows this: There is no hurry, we shall get there someday .it shows that patience is bitter but its fruit is delicious like medicine to a child. The truth is that all of our answers are inside ourselves, it's just that we need to find them. Patience allows us to take the pause that helps us get our thoughts out back in order and our feelings under control.

When you feel like you need some time for yourself to breath, to heal, to simply be yourself, you should allow yourself to take that time and during this process if you find yourself feeling guilty toward your love ones, for not giving them enough time, remember: - if you are not able to give them enough time it's doesn't mean that you don't love them, it just that you are prioritising yourself first, you are giving yourself more time to love yourself to find yourself. And it's normal, in my personal opinion Patience teaches us to become calmer, it provides us with steadiness. It also says that one should take a break and allow him/her time to wait for getting the best result for themselves and also one should have a positive attitude towards your result. BTS member Jungkook once said "Patience is not the ability to wait, but it's the ability to keep a good attitude while waiting". Dealing with every situation with patience and calmness can solve our half of the problem. we all have to be more patient towards yourself. If you lose your patience, you lose the battle of your life as a farmer roots out his crop before the proper time. we are growing a little bit more each and every day, just be patient with the time. as I already mentioned in my early articles that there's no ten-step program, there's no rule book for becoming patient. It can be different for everyone. Allow yourself time to be more patient towards any situation. If you get stuck in any situation then take your own time to deal with that situation, handle every situation with some patience. Today's reminder for you: have patience with all the things, but ,first of all with yourself.

SHAMELESS COLOUR

Does everyone born with the same colour or does our mother womb carries a customized melanin option to choose the colour we want? The world has its colour in that we are the natured human process to live our lives in the own way we our!. The world has a different complexion of nature, so because we are judgmental of people by colour we can not change the colour of trees or clouds, and animals we see. Eyes we see through nature are beautiful in their way of colour then why colorism to ourselves!?! yes, we are annoying the people who are dull and praising the bright people.

We are so judgmental about their religion, background, and country due to their colour. Nowadays the young generation and people are influenced by media showing the movies actors and actresses who are fit, royal, and having high complexion, By this, we are comparing the real ones with reel once in reality and praising the actress as a queen and angel, so because actress having bright complexion and advertising the artificial products can not make your skin complexion high. We are living through a peak stupid society where exclusively judging people by colour.

We comment she is dark; she is tan or he is dull, who are we to judge them? “colour is just a colour” for only eyes. Don’t be shame to show your real skin color to society, be brave the world is in your hand. People who are making hearts no need colour, only their soul. Here no people are ugly by their colour, people are meant to be themselves by their colour and beauty to show them as like they are to the world, not to judge by other people. So because we are judged, we can’t increase our complexion by hiding our face with make-up or artificial products it’s wrong!! be with your beauty who loves you as you are.

Open your eyes and see the beauty and enjoy every color you see. Only the soul and heart we see are colorful. Colours to our eyes is to enjoy! not to judge humans.
